Continental Resources wins IBM's Competitive Leadership Award for 2009

Bedford, MA—June 3, 2010—Continental Resources (ConRes) today announced they've been awarded the Competitive Leadership Award for 2009 from IBM. ConRes is one of only 34 North American Business Partners to be recognized as the "Best of the Best" from 2009. The Competitive Leadership Award is given to Business Partners who exhibit strong business growth, dedication to customers' success, and a strong partnership with IBM.

"We are proud to be honored with this distinction," said Ken Simon, VP of Sales, Enterico, the IBM Division of ConRes. "With our partners, ConRes can provide the entire IBM product line from desktops to servers to networks to mainframes, software and services. Our ISO 9001 Nashua NH integration center is world class in making solutions possible, reducing complexity and making customers' ROI more attractive. "

"Continental Resources was clearly at the size and scale to be a long-term strategic partner for [us]", says VP of Technology Services for an international book and journal publisher. "[ConRes] is a national firm with the size and weight to have the kind of leverage that we were looking for with a vendor to be a total solutions provider. [ConRes] had the capacity that we were looking for to tailor creative and flexible financial solutions and have the technical resources, up to the general contractor role, for certain implementations because of the technical staff that they have in addition to the sales organization."
